

Your class is out there. We help you find them.

Most committees lose the reunion before it starts, stuck rebuilding a class list from a decades-old spreadsheet and a Facebook group. Reunly starts where you are: with a yearbook and a few names.

629

classmates on one 1977 roster, with yearbook portraits. Up from 337, built from scanned pages

178

classmates located for one committee in a single search run, with cities and profile links founding price, one time, for the whole reunion. Not per classmate, not per month

$99

THE THREE THINGS THAT MATTER

1 Your yearbook becomes your class list

Scan the senior pages and upload them. Reunly reads every portrait and the name printed under it, then builds the profile, photo attached and spelling intact. One class went from 337 names to 629 classmates with pictures, without anyone typing a roster.

2 We go looking for the ones you've lost

Point it at the classmates you can't reach. It searches public sources and comes back with a current city, a LinkedIn or Facebook profile, and a short note on who they are now. One run returned 178 write-ups, 71 LinkedIn profiles and 85 Facebook profiles from a single class.

3 One page that handles the rest of it

Share one link and your classmates RSVP, buy tickets, find each other and read the schedule. Take money by card, Venmo, Zelle or check. Put your colors, your banner and your class logo on it, and it looks like your reunion, not our software.

AND THAT'S JUST PAGE ONE

- Email the whole class, or only the ones who haven't replied
- A printable program for the night itself
- Ticket tiers: early bird, regular, at the door
- An In Memoriam wall the committee controls
- Then & now photos on every profile
- Committee tasks, so nobody does it all alone

Built by one small team. A real person answers.

From a box of yearbooks to the last dance.

Everything below is included. One price covers the committee, the classmates and the night.

FIRST · BUILD THE LIST

Find your class

- Upload yearbook scans; portraits and names become profiles automatically
- Search for lost classmates: current city, LinkedIn, Facebook, and a short write-up
- Maiden and married names on every profile, so nobody gets lost to a name change
- Link classmates who married each other; both profiles show it
- Mark classmates verified, missing or deceased, and keep the record straight
- Ask the class for help: one email names exactly who you still can't reach

THEN · INVITATIONS & MONEY

Fill the room

- Ready-made emails: save the date, invitation, reminders, day-of details
- Send to everyone, or only the maybes, the no-replies, or the unpaid
- Ticket tiers with real prices: early bird, regular, at the door
- Cards online, or Venmo, Zelle, PayPal and checks if your class prefers
- RSVP per event, so Friday's cocktail hour and Saturday's dinner each get a count
- Plus-ones handled, headcounts kept current as answers change
- Class surveys: meal choices, song requests, anything you need to know

THE BIG NIGHT

Run the reunion

- Door check-in from a phone; every classmate carries a digital badge
- Anonymous appreciation notes between classmates, sealed until reunion night
- A live photo wall that fills as the night goes on
- Reunion Feud, a game built from your class's own survey answers
- A time capsule classmates fill for the next reunion
- A printable program, plus a memorial page done with care

THROUGHOUT · THE COMMITTEE

Share the load

- Tasks with owners and due dates, visible to the whole committee
- Meeting notes and roles, so decisions don't live in one inbox
- Subcommittees for food, venue, outreach, whatever you split off
- Rosi, a built-in helper that answers questions about your reunion
- Replies from classmates land in your inbox, not ours
- And when you're stuck, you email a person, not a ticket queue

Planning a whole weekend? Multi-day reunions are built in: separate events, separate headcounts, one schedule your class can actually follow.
